hackathon at BNY Mellon. His teams Hackathon project searches for employees within BNY Mellon based on skills or concepts that the user needs help with.

"It will show all the people within the office or nearby office who knows what you need help with. For instance, you are working on a project with Java, but you are having a hard time understanding one concept of Java. You can search reflection, and it will give you all the people who can help you with reflection within your office." said Abdul on his team's winning project. Congrats to Abdul Aziz for the Hackathon win and for representing Lehman College!
